

Brought to you by

Built in 1910, Anderson Bridge is a vehicular bridge that spans across the Singapore River. Anderson Bridge was built with the intention to replace the overloaded Cavenagh Bridge

During the Japanese Occupation, severed heads of criminals were hung on the bridge to serve as a warning not to break the law. This bridge forms a distinctive part of the Formula One Singapore Street Circuit.